

ABSTRACT

A system and a related method for selecting a program for viewing is described. A plurality of programs and associated program information are received from a remote source. A program
5 from said plurality of programs is first selected in response to a user input. Rating information for this selected program is input by a user locally. Another program may then be selected, based on the input rating information and the associated program information.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176